Mental health concerns and substance use among adolescents has been on the rise across the nation and in Orange County. The Irvine Unified School District (IUSD), in partnership with Hoag Hospital, will host a parent presentation to explore these important topics. Dr. Steven Ey, Chief of Service, Hoag Addiction Treatment Centers, will discuss:

- How to identify substance abuse disorders and common warning signs
- Talking with teens – openly and honestly – about drug and alcohol use
- Health impacts and dangers of vaping
- Available support resources

A panel of teen mental health experts from IUSD, ASPIRE at Hoag and OC Revive will be present, along with representatives from the Irvine Police Department, to answer questions.

Resource tables with additional information and brochures will be available outside the Irvine High School Theater.
